Commissioner for Children and Young People listening to the hopes and dreams in the Adelaide Hills

SA's Commissioner for Children and Young People Helen Connolly will be visiting the Adelaide Hills on the 11th of April as part of her '2018 Hopes and Dreams Regional Tour'. The Commissioner is visiting 10 regions in 10 months and kicked off the tour in February at the Riverland and visited Murray Bridge in March.

The Commissioner will listen to the aspirations of local children and will be holding consultations with small groups in organised sessions with agencies, youth groups and schools.

Ms Connolly says the idea for the Hopes and Dreams regional tour came out of her Listening Tour in 2017:

"During the Listening Tour young people talked a lot about what they wanted in the future, what type of job they would like or what their sporting aspirations were.

"On the regional visits many children and young people talked about the importance of feeling proud of where they lived. We heard that they didn't want to leave their towns when they were older, but many felt there would be more opportunities if they did.

"I want to share any emerging themes with local leadership and build strong relationships between young people and local decision makers," said the Commissioner.

The consultations will use creative and engaging approaches to facilitate the discussion. Helen Connolly hopes that after the tour she will know more about what is needed to help children and young people in regional areas realise their dreams.

Background

The Commissioner for Children and Young People Helen Connolly was appointed in April 2017 and is responsible for promoting and advocating for the rights, interests and wellbeing of children and young people across South Australia.

Shortly after taking office, the Commissioner went on a 'Listening Tour' and met with over 1400 children and young people across South Australia to find out what was important to them.
