Are you a young South Australian passionate about making change in your community? SA SRC wants you!

In South Australia, there are more than 378,000 children under 18 years of age. This total represents one fifth of the state's entire population of 1.87 million (2024).

We know you care about many issues and that you have very different life experiences from older Australians. South Australia's Commissioner for Children and Young People, Helen Connolly, has met with many of you over the last few years and you have repeatedly told her that you are feeling frustrated and sidelined as you continue to be denied opportunities to participate because of a perception that you lack knowledge and experience, and that your opinions are therefore not valid. You want to make a difference to the world and to your communities. However, you do not feel listened to or that decision makers are willing to include or value your input.

You have told the Commissioner that many adults around you really don't know much about your lives or understand what it is you care about.

This perceived lack of understanding and interest in your lives is producing feelings of powerlessness and creating mixed feelings about what the future holds for you and creating doubts about whether adults really do have your best interests at heart, now or for the future. This is particularly so when you see that those in leadership don't act on the issues you see as critical and urgent, such as inequality, climate change and mental health.

As the experts in your own lives, you have knowledge you can share about your experiences and ideas on ways to create positive change within your local community led by young people themselves.

A youth participation model for SA young people

In 2022, Commissioner for Children and Young People, Helen Connolly, in partnership with Foundation for Young Australians (FYA), established a state-wide student representative council that would ensure young South Australians can act on the issues that matter to them most.

The South Australian Student Representative Council (SA SRC) is a representative body of up to 150 students in Years 10, 11, and 12 drawn from across the state, working together to create genuine, student-led change within their own communities.

The inaugural SA SRC enabled high school students across South Australia to create a vision for change that they would like to see. In 2023, the SA SRC worked on turning their student-led ideas into reality within schools and throughout the community. In 2024, the SA SRC ran five campaigns to advocate for change across the state. The SA SRC will continue to build on this work in 2025.

The SA SRC brings together passionate young people from rural, regional, and metropolitan communities, who want to harness the energy, ideas, and desires of other like-minded young people to create a better future, not only for themselves, but for future generations of South Australians.

As a member of the SA SRC you will be equipped with the resources, skills and confidence you'll need to enact the change you want to see. You'll be involved with other like-minded young people in setting priorities and actions for making change focused on issues you perceive as being critical and requiring urgent action.

What is the SA SRC?

The SA SRC is an inclusive, action-orientated body for high school students working together on issues young South Australians raise and prioritise, in ways you believe will make a difference.

We encourage you to become a member, either as an individual or as part of a team of 2-3 friends who will be able to support each other to participate over the school year.

In the words of one young South Australian:

“If we are able to empower the youth of SA then they will believe in them themselves and create a snowball effect that will make the world a better place.”

The SA SRC is representative and democratic, with a focus on providing support to young people who care deeply about bringing about positive change into areas of their lives that they feel matter most. SA SRC members will have an opportunity to have a say and to determine what actions will be taken at the school, community, and state levels.

You can expect a very different SRC to the one you might know from school. This state-wide SRC is about having the opportunity to join with other like-minded young people from across the state to make real change in your community on issues decided upon and actioned by you. You'll meet other passionate young people like yourself, and be given the opportunity to build the skills and knowledge you'll need around the issues and areas you care most about.

SA SRC Membership consists of:

- Up to 150 high school students in Years 10, 11, and 12 selected annually from across South Australia

Your questions answered...

What is the time commitment for the SA SRC likely to be?

We are looking for students who can dedicate their time to working on creating change in their communities.

The campaigns you will work on might take up 1–2 hours of volunteer time per month. We will also have monthly check-in meetings that will be conducted online via Zoom. Face-to-face meetings will take place in the Adelaide CBD.

The SA SRC Summit 2025 will be held on Friday 21 March.

Can I apply with a friend?

Absolutely! You can apply with a friend or as an individual. We encourage teams of between 2 and 3 young people to apply, so that you can participate together and support each other with your involvement.

How much does the SA SRC cost?

There may be some small out-of-pocket expenses, but we will endeavour to ensure most of these costs are covered. Travel costs will be covered for regional and rural students.

What is expected?

Attendance at the Summit is non-negotiable. SA SRC members must be able to participate in a range of interactive discussions and workshops and be willing to work in small groups and teams throughout the year.

Who can apply?

Anyone enrolled in Year 10, 11, or 12 in 2025 in a South Australian public, Catholic or independent school.

Does my school have to agree to my membership?

No. The SA SRC is not school based, so applications are not made through your school. However, as the SA SRC provides opportunities for empowerment and leadership, we are confident SA schools will promote, encourage, and engage with the SA SRC program, and the Commissioner will be advocating for them to do so.

Is this a 'leadership' program?

Yes and no. Leadership will be developed and supported but it is not a formal leadership program as such. We want SA SRC members to represent the breadth and depth of difference in our South Australian student population. We know that young South Australians care about lots of different issues and come to the table with different experiences and perspectives. We think it's really important that we reflect diversity and take an inclusive approach to young South Australians who become members of the SA SRC.

What will I get out of being on the SA SRC?

We want to provide you with the resources, skills and connections that will support you to create the change you want to see in your community. CCYP will do this by connecting you to other young people and decision makers.

Your questions answered...

We will also be upskilling you through workshops on media, campaigning and advocacy. By doing so, you'll leave the SA SRC with new friends, professional contacts, the experience of working in professional contexts, and a bunch of 21st century leadership skills.

Do I have to be on my school's SRC to apply?

No. Previous experience is not necessary for you to apply. The only criteria is that you're going to be in Year 10, 11, or 12 in 2025. We are looking for young people who want to work collaboratively with their state-wide peers on campaigns they care about because they want to create a future they will be excited to be in.

Who is behind the SA SRC?

The SA SRC is an initiative of South Australia's Commissioner for Children and Young People (CCYP); an independent statutory authority, established under the Children and Young People (Oversight and Advocacy Bodies) Act 2016. The Commissioner promotes and advocates for the rights, development, and wellbeing of all children and young people in South Australia and is committed to advocating for their involvement in decision making that affects them, with particular consideration given to those children and young people who are vulnerable and at-risk.

The Commissioner's Advocacy Agenda has set a key objective to create opportunities for young people that will enable them to engage policy and decision makers to enact and influence change.

The Foundation for Young Australians (FYA) is an Australian non-profit organisation whose purpose is to back young people with the resources, skills, and connections needed to make change. The organisation's vision is that young people have the power to beat injustice and transform the future.
